Freedom Flood Benches for Retail

There is no question that one of the most difficult issues for garden centers is watering, especially on a busy weekend with customers picking over plants and pushing carts down the aisles. Bartlett Bench's new line of retail flood benches solve that and keep your plants looking their best. These great looking retail benches are fully self-contained with their own battery, controls, and under bench water supply.

- Save labor – no hand watering.
- Provide your plants with the perfect amount of water-no over or under watering.
- Eliminate hazards caused by hoses in the aisles and wet walkways. No
- Display your plants with class and style
- No more wet blossoms and foliage.
- Spend time taking care of your customers, not your plants.
- No more customer complaints about wet plants and muddy aisles.

Solidly built cedar frames with sturdy 4x4 legs and 6" wide perimeter cedar trim. Threaded leg levelers for uneven or soft ground are standard. Fill the water container about once per week and swap out the rechargeable 12 volt battery about once per month, and you will have the most maintenance free garden center that money can buy.

Fully assembled; bolt the legs on and attach the re-chargeable battery. Automatic version features a timer that turns water on and off for truly worry free operation.
